

Take The Family To See
One Of The Hottest Shows In Town

Showbiz Magazine
By Hilary L. Green

As you make your list of shows to see while in Las Vegas, be sure to place singer-impressionist Danny Gans' show at the Mirage high on your list. The must-see show is one of the hottest tickets in town, filling the beautiful theater that bears Gans' name nightly with enthusiastic audiences.

Gans' remarkable performance has garnered him numerous awards and accolades. He has worked hard to attain this level of excellence and he doesn't take his success for granted. He maintains an ongoing rehearsal schedule that keeps his act filled with vitality and new characterizations, as well as injecting newsmakers or events that may have occurred that day. Sometimes, Gans will invite the audience to shout out their requests, too, which can mean coming up with a brand-new portrayal on the spot.

It's hard to imagine that show business wasn't Gans' childhood dream. He was on his way to a career in professional baseball when his hopes were dashed by a devastating Achilles tendon injury. Determined not to become embittered, Gans switched gears and years singing with bands, doing stand-up comedy and honing his now legendary repertoire of on-the-money impressions. His dedication was rewarded with his own, one-man show on Broadway, his motion picture debut and lots of television exposure. But, when presented with the opportunity to bring his show to Las Vegas, Gans jumped at the chance to be able to finally settle down to a life with his wife and family.

Today, Gans is at the top of the game, although not the one that he thought he'd become famous for! Instead, he is considered to be one of the foremost singer-impressionist-comedians in the business today and his box office appeal continues to be hard to match.

Don't miss the inimitable Gans in his extraordinary performance at the Mirage. It will be an evening that you will long remember.